The views expressed in this publication are not necessarily those of Sunderland Football Club.

Donoghue's Soccer Scene

It is going to be an interesting season one way or the other.

Not just to see whether the World Cup is going to influence thoughts and attitudes throughout the English game.

But it is going to be enlightening to observe that of all the hot air that came out over the great Freedom of Contract argument whose was the hottest.

The man in the street may not be too impressed with the politics of football - but if opponents of the new charter are to be believed then football in this country is about to be crippled.

The antis have argued long and hard about the perils that lie ahead. Yet if there is no noticeable change in the strengths or weaknesses for that matter, of our national game, what are we to think of those who said: "Freedom of Contract? Don't touch it."

It's been very difficult to argue against the case presented by the Professional Footballers Association.

Basically what they have been asking for - and eventually got - was the right to change employers at the end of a contract.

Yet those who fought tooth and nail are convinced that English soccer has involved itself with a suicidal venture.

There is no way of knowing how long we must wait for the truth to emerge.

The suspicion is that attitudes appropriate to decades ago may be reluctant to die. If that is so the game is not as healthy as it might be.

There are bound to be problems, the teething troubles that inevitably go with any new system.

One of them cropped up recently when Spurs signed defender John Lacy whose contract with Second Division expired.

Spurs offered £150,000 for Lacy. Their London neighbours claimed he was worth £250,000.

An independent tribunal had a different view. He was worth £200,000...but reportedly Fulham chairman Ernie Clay wasn't happy with that at all.

How you start to evaluate the worth of a professional footballer is anyone's guess.

What is more certain that the "old guard" have to accept that changes - and there will be good and bad - will have to be made.

Football may not exactly be dying on its feet but neither is it blooming with health and vitality.

The finances of some clubs, particularly in the lower divisions, are in a wretched state.

To put that right it will take new ideas, greater enterprise a far more aggressive sales technique.

Manager's Talk-In

Whatever the outcome of today's Anglo-Scottish Cup tie with Bolton the most important thing to me is that we are playing this sort of match at all.

It has two major purposes to serve and hopefully both will prove more than useful as we wait for the League programme to get under way.

Every manager tries to prepare his players as thoroughly for a new season as is humanly possible. But a recurring difficulty is getting a full competitive spirit going right from the very start.

So while we look to do well in the competition what we are really hoping for is a spin off in the first League game of the season against Charlton.

By the time that fixture comes along we will have played two more cup matches and should have fitted into the competitive groove.

It can be useful too that Bolton are our opponents because it's an ideal opportunity to compare ourselves with a team which has just left the Second Division.

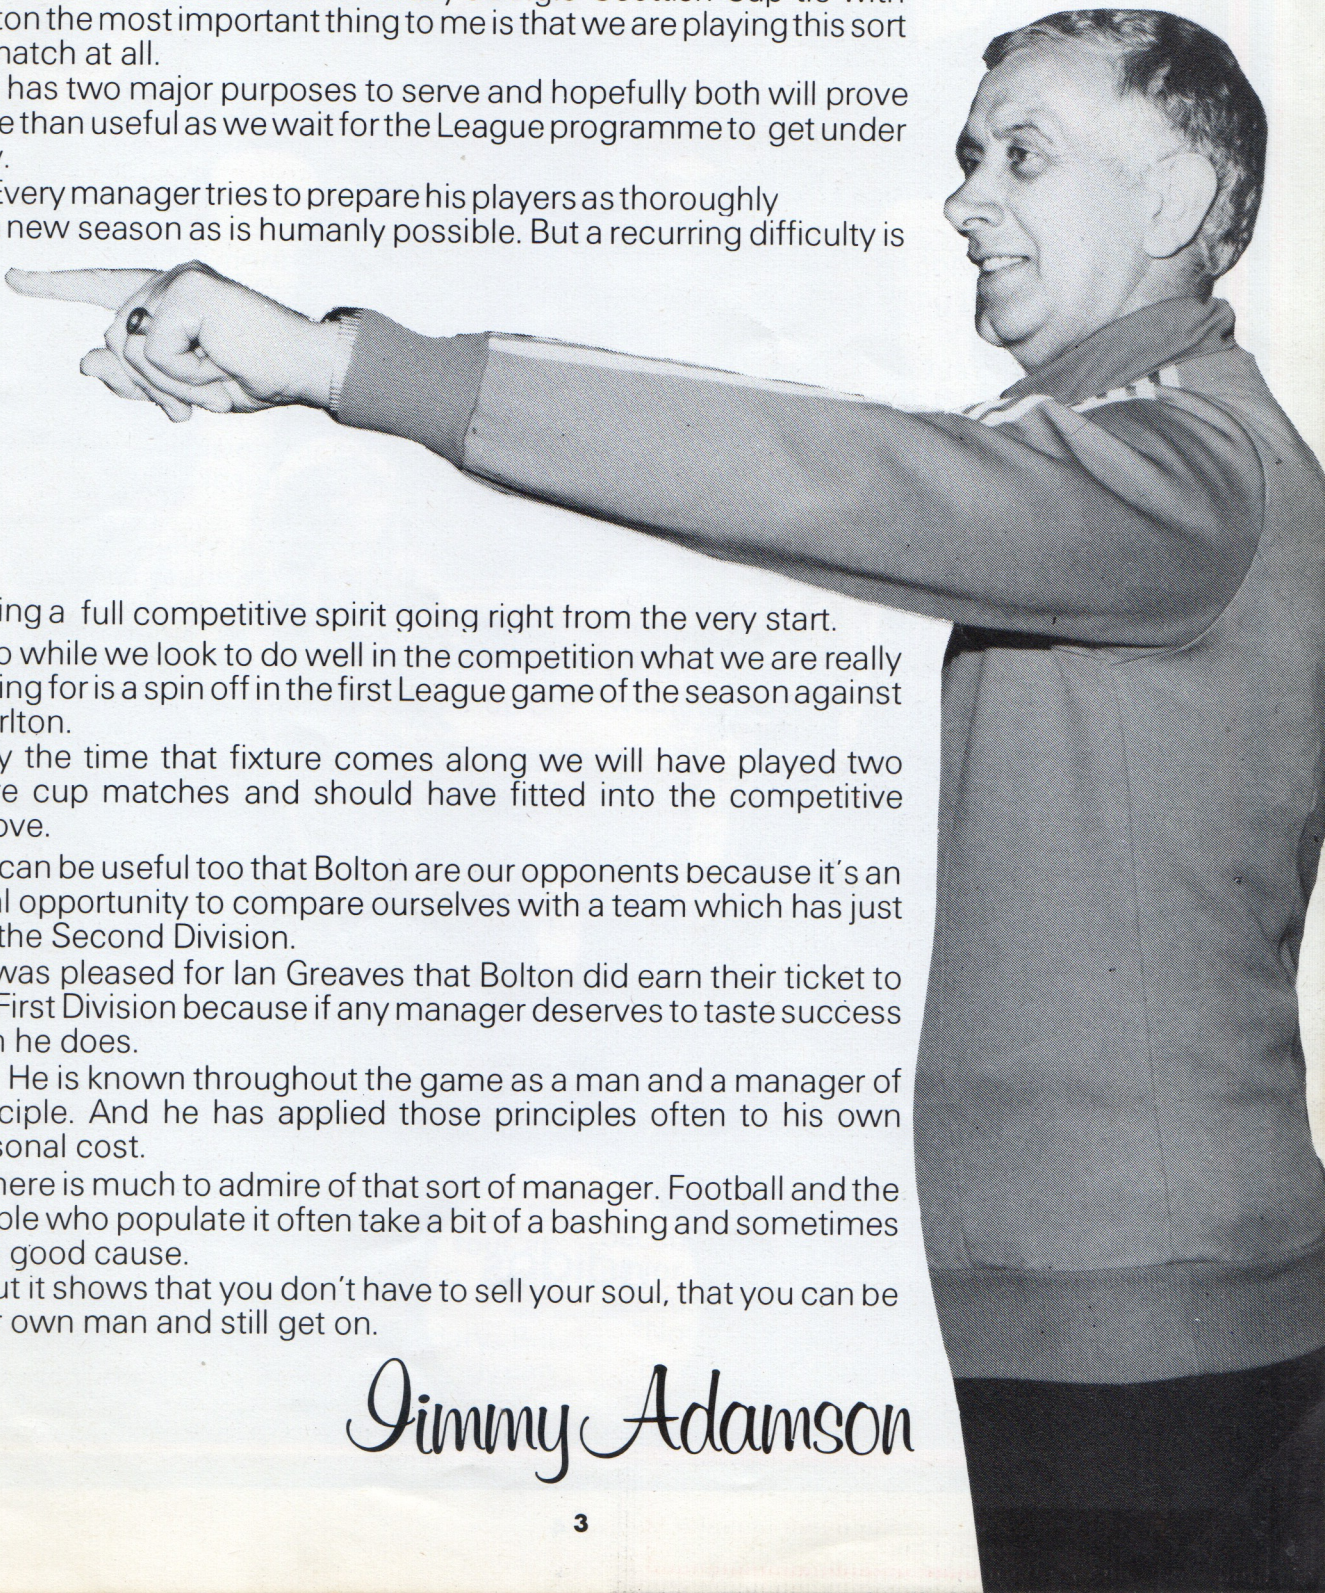

I was pleased for Ian Greaves that Bolton did earn their ticket to the First Division because if any manager deserves to taste success then he does.

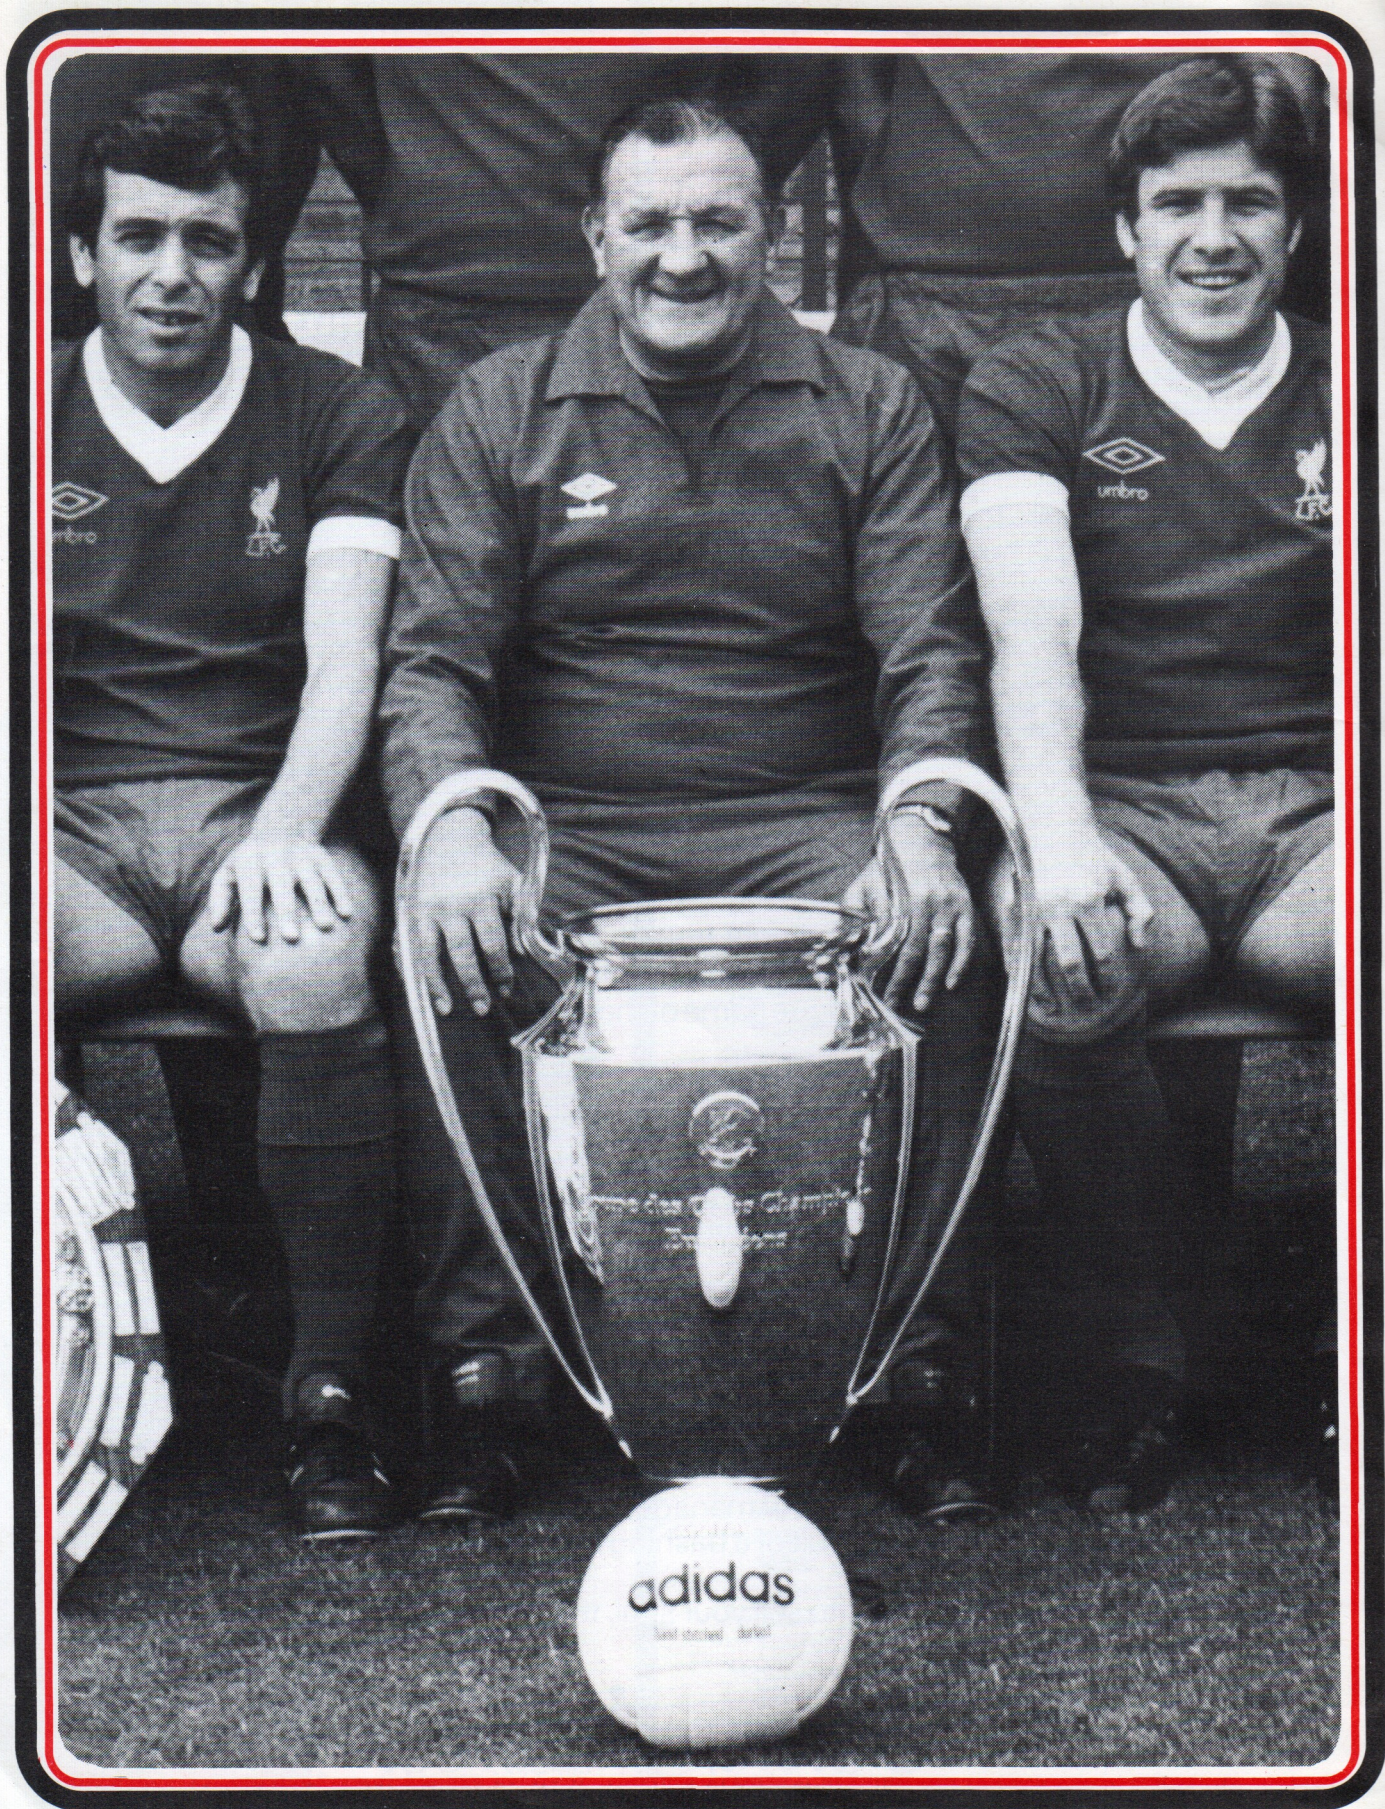

He is known throughout the game as a man and a manager of principle. And he has applied those principles often to his own personal cost.

There is much to admire of that sort of manager. Football and the people who populate it often take a bit of a bashing and sometimes with good cause.

But it shows that you don't have to sell your soul, that you can be your own man and still get on.

Jimmy Adamson

The Big Interview

The Journal's John Donoghue talking to Bob Paisley

Success is the name of the game

There seems no more likely man to turn to on the eve of a new football season when hopes are high and dreams of glory are being dreamed across the country.

Success is the name of the game whether you are playing in any of the Football League's four divisions or even if you have simply formed a league among your local pub teams.

And Bob Paisley goes on churning it out from Anfield in the way that Scottish and Newcastle churn out their beer....regular and lots of it.

However while it is the formula you are bound to enquire after it's the make-up of the man that's equally as intriguing.

He'll tell you, perhaps, that there really isn't a formula and if there was he might be tempted to put it on the market and wait for the cash to roll in.

What he will be less ready to talk about is himself because he is really a modest sort of man.

Football is littered with individuals whose heads have been turned by the sweet smell of success.

Success in any walk of life can change a man yet if it has changed Paisley then there isn't anyone in football who has noticed the smallest sign.

Yet in virtually a lifetime of service to Liverpool Football Club - the last four as manager - he has contributed to some marvellous moments.

Typically he gives the legendary Bill Shankly much of the credit and nobody can doubt that Shanks did a tremendous job.

But most managers consider that achieving success is one thing but maintaining it is entirely another.

"Shank was out on his own, something totally different," says Paisley. He has this great rapport with the crowd and it would have been foolish of me to try to match him. Anyway I can't stand imitators.

"I knew I could never match him in that regard. I simply set out to try and match his results.

"If I had tried to come up with some of the patter some people come up with then I would have fallen flat on my face.

"Basically I didn't really want the job in the first place and when the board said 'take it and see what you can do' I knew they would look after me. They are that sort of club.

Bob talks warmly of the Liverpool people and loves their humour; "When you are happy you always have a chance."

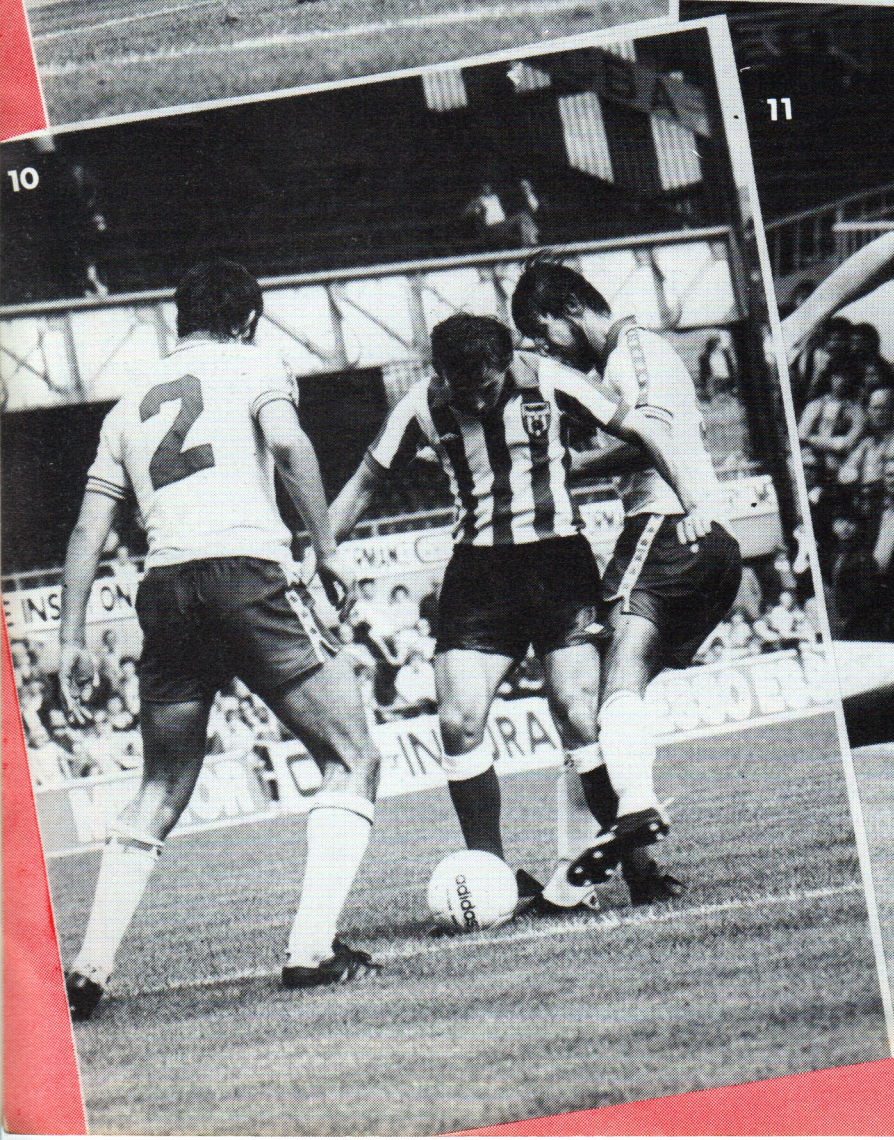

But the North East - he comes from Hetton and retains his rich Durham accent - is special to him as well.

"In many ways," he says "the two areas are similar sorts of places. The passion for football is there.

"And I will never forget Sunderland because when I was a young lad playing in junior football they turned me down because I was on the small side.

"Not that I held that against them.

But the two players who came to watch turned out to be smaller than me in the end."

Bolton Wanderers were founded as Christ Church FC in 1874 and three years later changed their name to the present one becoming a professional club in 1880.

They were original members of the Football League and after being relegated to the Second Division several times in their early days, they enjoyed an unbroken First Division spell from 1911 to 1933.

The Wanderers won the FA Cup in 1923, 1926, 1929 and 1958 but they have still to win the First Division championship.

From 1935 to 1964 the Wanderers remained in the First Division and in 1970-1 they dropped into the Third Division for the first time in their history. Two years later they were promoted as champions.

Last season, they won promotion to the First Division, once again as champions after twice finishing in third place in the Second Division.

There are two members of the Bolton squad who take very little introducing to North East soccer fans.

Ray Train, of course, is a former Sunderland mid-field player while Alan Gowling only moved to Burnden Park towards the end of last season.

And that saw Gowling - a member of the Professional Footballers Association executive committee - team up again with manager Ian Greaves with whom he worked at Huddersfield.

Ray was a little unlucky with injuries but played a full part in the final promotion push.

For other players like defenders Sam Allardyce it was the end of a very long road.

Striker Neil Whatmore is a player with an impressive goalscoring record and last season hit 19 League goals.

He had help too from former England international Frank Worthington, signed from Leicester City.

As champions Wanderers conceded only 33 goals from the 42 matches, a tribute among other things to the goalkeeping of Jim McDonagh.

McDonagh has in fact boasted a ever present record, the only other player not to miss a match being Whatmore.

For assistant manager George Mullhall it is also a "coming home" and as a left winger with a lot of pace and a good shot he was a big crowd favourite.

The First Division will be something new for mid-field player, Peter Reid who is likened in style to Johnny Giles.

But it's familiar territory for Willie Morgan and full back Tony Dunne. Willie missed only one League match last season.

GRAVES

JIM McDONAGH

Jim joined the Wanderers two seasons ago on a month's loan from Rotherham United. Impressed and was signed for a £10,000 fee as cover for Barry Siddall. He soon got promotion with the transfer of Siddall to Sunderland and has held the first team spot since. Stands six feet tall and matches his height with agility.

JOHN RITSON

John was born in Liverpool and joined the Wanderers from schoolboy soccer. He graduated through the junior sides and is a strong defender with an attacking flair. Missed a spell of last season because of a cartilage operation.

TONY DUNNE

Eire international who played for most of his career with Manchester United. Was a member of the United European Cup winning side and since coming to Bolton has proved to be a firm favourite with the fans.

ROY GREAVES

Long serving player who has been rewarded with a testimonial for his supreme service to the club. Born in Farnworth, near Bolton, he is a non-stop worker who likes to be involved all the time.

MIKE WALSH

Manchester-born Mike joined the Wanderers from school. He earned a regular place in the side after being groomed for a couple of seasons and is equally proficient in the middle of the defence, at left back, or in midfield.

SAM ALLARDYCE

A central defender born in the Midlands, Sam joined the Wanderers from school and since coming into the side in 1975 has held down a regular place. Is very dangerous when moving forward for free kicks and corners and has scored with some very spectacular headers.

RAY TRAIN

Signed for the Wanderers only minutes before the transfer deadline two seasons ago for a £30,000 fee from Sunderland. Has a terrier-like tackle and is always in the thick of the mid-field action.

NEIL WHATMORE

Strong attacker with a flair for scoring goals. Two seasons ago he was the top Second Division scorer with 31 goals from League and League Cup games. Last season he scored 22 goals to play his part in the side winning the championship.

ALAN GOWLING

Took over from Worthington as Bolton's record signing when he cost £120,000 from Newcastle United just before last season's deadline. Alan started his career with Manchester United and then moved to Huddersfield when Bolton boss Ian Greaves was manager there. Went to Newcastle four years ago for a fee of around £70,000.

PETER REID

A youngster who joined Bolton from school on Merseyside. Peter has been a regular member of the England Under-21 side and skipped them last season. He is a constructive player who reads the game well and is a fine passer of the ball.

FRANK WORTHINGTON

Had a spell on loan with the Wanderers, then signed for a £90,000 fee from Leicester City in October, 1977. Started at Huddersfield, Frank is an England international with a great deal of skill. Scored some vital goals for the Wanderers last season.

Letters to the Editor

My mind goes back to a year or more when the lads went so close to staying in the First Division with some tremendous fighting football. I was at Goodison that night when everything was resting on the last match and what made it worse we didn't really know what was happening down at Coventry. I honestly believe they were so unlucky to go down. The team greatly impressed me even though they went down.

Big things were expected last season but it was a disappointing season. We never got going.

(D. Vincent, Whickham)

No arguments there.

So many good local schoolboys seem to leave the area, it makes me wonder whether they think they won't get a chance of making the grade with their home town club.

Isn't it time North Easterners got a fair crack of the whip!

(H. Ridley, Chester-le-Street)

You mean you haven't noticed Joe Bolton, Kevin Arnott, Gary Rowell, Shaun Elliott, Mick Henderson and the rest?

If you have something to say, we'll be pleased to hear from you. Send your letters to: Programme Editor, Roker Park, Sunderland.

LUCKY FAN

Each home programme will feature a lucky face and the winner will win a crisp £5 note. That is providing he can produce this programme and himself of course to, Ron Linney, Secretary's Office, Roker Park, within seven days.

This weeks Lucky Fan is from the Sunderland v. Southampton match on Saturday 29th July, 1978

IN & ABOUT ROKER

Token advice

There will be a bigger than ever demand for tickets on big match days at Roker Park from now on as new safety legislation means that the ground capacity must be considerably reduced. The club will again operate a tokens system which favours the loyal fan and sheets for the tokens will be available in Roker Review from the first League game of the season.

Just the ticket

The club's office staff have been kept busy during the summer months dealing with season ticket applications and we are pleased to report a healthy response. Latest figure: £180,000.

Congratulations

Roker coach Syd Farrimond used the closed season to good effect, attending a course at Bisham Abbey in pursuit of further coaching qualifications. He came out with flying colours and was one of the few to do so.

99 not out

Here's one for the diary Sunderland Football Club will celebrate its centenary in October, 1979.

On the move

Former Sunderland centre-half Colin Waldron has been involved in two moves since the end of last season. He left Roker Park to join American club Tulsa Roughnecks and has since been transferred to Philadelphia Furries who are coached by Southampton's Alan Ball.

Likely Lads

A good crop of apprentice professionals have been signed up during the summer including local boys like: Derek Watson (West Boldon); John Crooks (South Stanley); Steven Harrison (North Shields); Stuart Sherwood (Hetton-le-Hole); Stephen Golightly (East Boldon); William Ginn (Gateshead); Shaun Myers (Ferryhill) and Stephen Gault (Boldon Colliery).
